C. OF C. COMMITTEE COMPLETES ARRANGEMENTS FOR PICNIC

WILL EXPLAIN CIVIC CENTER PROPOSITION

BENEFIT DINNER AT OLD GRAMMAR SCHOOL THIS FRIDAY NIGHT

Much discussion has been heard during the past week concerning the proposal to convert the old grammar school into a community center. There fore a large attendance is expected at the benefit dinner to be given this evening at that school, at which the plan will be detailed.

Stanley Conant is chairman of the committee in charge of the affair. He announces that the dinner will be served cafeteria style from 5:30 to 8 p.m. and the price will be most reasonable because all the food is being donated. He is looking forward to seeing a big turnout for he finds much interest is being shown in the matter. After the dinner there will be free entertainment and dancing.

Report is Made on New Relief Program

Lakeside people will be interested to know that California's new co-operative program between the Department of Employment and the State Relief Administration to date has resulted in placement of 68 persons from the San Diego office of the Department.

This announcement was made today by Ray Mathewson, manager, who said the co-operative program, which started only six weeks ago, has been a major item in reducing relief expenditures in the county.

The program involves the reg istration for work with the Department of every person who applies for relief. If suitable employment is available, the applicant must take the work or forfeit rights to relief.

Arrangements for the co-operative program between the two state agencies were made in Sacramento by Dr. H. Dewey Anderson, State Relief Administrator, and Roy Stockton, chief of the California State Employment Service, a division of the Department of Employment.

WORD "HONEY" NOT NECESSARILY MARK OF ENDEARMENT

"Honey" - - that word on a package received by mail does not necessarily mean that it's one sweetheart addressing another; it may have been put there by the postmaster. At the Lakeside postoffice they have a honey stamp, a bread stamp, a butter stamp and 45 others in addition to the perforated paper stamps. To put it shortly they use over there no fewer than 48 rubber stamps.

How do you remember them all? Postmaster Helm was asked.

"We don't; there's a label below each one," was the reply.

There they are, 48 rubber stamps resting on nails on the wall They deal with all kinds of things from parcel post to air mail. And the postoffice has to have daters of all kinds, except, of course, the kind that some young people think about.

Mercury Tries Jump To Mars; Reaches 90

Mars must have excited the mercury in the thermometer. At any rate the quicksilver tried to leap out of the tube this week in order to reach the celestial heights. It got as high as 90. In San Diego the highest temperature was only 79, Queer, isn't it, how it never gets officially hot in that good city, where the truth is always spoken by meteorologists. Alpine admitted 92 and La Mesa 90.

UNIFIED PLAN HERE PLEASES SAYS PASTOR

NEW GOTHIC WINDOWS INSTALLED; GUILD GIRLS DONATE

Pastor T. I. Nalbach says the Unified Services which began last Sunday at the Lakeside Community Church were most successful. And, of course, he would like to see that success maintained; therefore he asks all to take avantage of these shorter summer services.

Sunday School begins at the regular hour 9:45 a.m. and church at 10:30. Both services are thus combined and the closing is at 11:15. The warm weather should not deter any from attending so short a service.

Those who attend this Sunday will be able to inspect the new Gothic windows with opalescent glass installed this week. They are the gift of a member and are much appreciated. The Girls of the World Wide Guild-Junior Missionary Society - donated $15 toward these handsome windows. The bottom part of the windows opens out so as to give ventilation.

Suit for One Cent Interests Lakeside

Lakeside people who are daily called upon to pay sales tax on small as well as larger amounts will follow with interest reports of a suit to recover one cent, filed by a San Diego man with the Supreme Court at Washington. It involves much more than a cent. An Associated Press dispatch to the San Diego Evening Tribune says:

C. Leon de Aryan, of San Diego, Calif., contended he had been improperly charged a one-cent sales tax on a 15-cent purchase of cardboard from Roy O. Akers, a retailer.

The high tribunal was asked to review a decision by the California supreme court sustaining the collection.

It was argued that the state sales tax was 3 percent while a tax of one cent on a 15-cent purchase was at the rate of 6.67 percent. This was termed excessive and illegal.

Farm Bureau Camp in Beautiful Laguna Mountains Charms Lakeside Visitors

Those people from Lakeside who took the Sunset Trail to the beautiful camp grounds of the San Diego County Farm Bureau, high up in the Laguna Mountains enjoyed a visit that will linger long and pleasantly in their memories.

The camp has a great booster and fine worker inMrs. R. D. Beal. She and John Wilkinson compose the local committee. Mrs. Beal reports that Timothy Brownhill, former publisher of the Lakeside Farmer, and Mrs. Brownhill are camping at the Laguna Mountains resort. "Uncle Tim" says that if any of his old friends here are planning a mountain trip they must be sure to stop and see him.

ATMOSPHERE FRIENDLY AND COMFORTABLE

Farm Bureau camp in Laguna Mountains has furnished a welcome outing for a large group of farm bureau folks and their friends together with 4-H boys and girls from Otay and Lakeside. Opening with sixty enthusiastic campers July 15, Sunday morning breakfast July 23rd found seventy-seven vacationers, a number considerably increased at the noon meal. Under the leadership of Mrs. Elizabeth Mykrantz of Chula Vista and hostess, Mrs. Mena Hathaway of El Cajon a very friendly and comfortable atmosphere pervaded the camp and all were at liberty to rest or play as the mood dictated.

A piano, gift of home department of farm bureau, at which Mrs. Hathaway, Mrs. Anna M. Panosh, county chairman of home department, and Miss Ethel Mae Read of San Diego by turn presided, assisted greatly at mess hall gatherings and Sunday morning worship under the pines. Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Eddy of National City and Mrs. Mykrantz led the Sunday morning services.

CAMP FIRE TALKS NIGHTLY EVENTS

Camp fires at which interesting talks by Jean C. Miller, assistant farm advisor, Lee Benson, itinerant assistant farm advisor, Dr. N. Matzen of Escondido and Fred Dorman, 4-H club leader, were a nightly event. Mrs. F. E. Lindley of San Diego entertained with bits of biography and a few poems of Uncle Walt Mason. The Farm Bureau Camp Yodeler. a camp newspaper edited by Mrs. Olive E. Read, county home department publicity chairman, enjoyed its second year of the camp fire entertainer.

The 4-H boys and girls with Miss Beth Reynolds of Otay and Miss Freda Clevenger of Lakeside, leaders of their respective clubs, provided welcome entertainment. The clubs enjoyed the camp this year with the adults.

ANNOUNCE PLANS FOR IMPROVEMENTS

Mr. F. E. Lindley, president of Farm Bureau, who frequently ascended to camp during the ten day period was feted Sunday with a birthday poem by Mrs. Eddy, a horoscope by Mr. Eddy. birthday cake and flowers. Mr. Lindley outlined constructive plans for improvement which will make a good camp better. Changes in the water system, an addition to the kitchen of the mess hall, small stoves or fire places in more of the cabins and ornamental planting were foremost in Mr. Lindley's betterment plan.

The cheffery of Hugh Devine and family of Santee who repeated a highly satisfactory performance of a year ago, made meal times the best of times.

While a very slight demand for her services was required, nurse Edith Tice of Los Angeles was happy to spend her second vacation with farm bureau people.

YOUTH: A MOMENT OF STRENGTH

"We come on earth with a cry; we grow old, and then we die." How brief seems the interval between the cry and the sigh. There is one stretch of it that passes far too rapidly; it is Youth — that period which Joseph Conrad called "a moment of strength, of romance, of glamour."

Any man beyond middle age must look back with wonder to some of the things that he did in his youth — the difficulties he faced and conquered, the chances that he took, the delight that he had in life.

Yes, youth was indeed "a moment of strength." How gaily one faced the world certain that some of its prizes would be gained. But the old man, enjoying his bit of sunshine today, what does he care for the prizes now? Let somebody else have them; all he wants is security — the hope that his last years may be spent in moderate comfort. Yet not for anything would he have missed the joy of striving that made his youth interesting and at times exhilarating. And it is that which Youth has before it today, "the strife divine." With it also goes hope and a strong belief in Providence.

The other night a group was talking around the dinner table. The discussion ranged wide, from the Lakeside Irrigation District assessments and soaring taxes down to turkeys and the price of eggs. The difficulties attendant on making a living came in for mention and someone quoted Cervantes statement that when one door closes another opens. It was remarked that the author of Don Quixote lifted that sentiment from a Chinese philosopher of long ago.

What does it matter? The thing for Youth to do is to remember the saying. It is one that must have been proved true to many a man right here in Lakeside and to thousands of others in San Diego county. So, if there are any young people of today who are inclined to look upon life darkly, we say to them, be of good courage, "if one door closes another will open." As Matthew Arnold put it:

While the locks are yet brown on thy head,
While the soul still looks through thine eyes,
While the heart still pours
The mantling blood to thy cheek,
Sink, O Youth, in thy soul,
Yearn to the greatness of Nature;
Rally the good in the depths of thyself.

Little rivers that run into big ones are called tribulations, said one child in her examination paper. Don't we know it.

The country may be going to the dogs but still it likes to know what the Brooklyn Dodgers are doing.

Happy days are here again; a number of "colyumists" and radio "artists" are on their vacation.

"PARADISE OF EXILES"

How beautiful is sunset, when the glow
Of heaven descends upon a land like thee,
Thou paradise of exiles, Italy.

Shelley wrote that. Doesn't it sound rather queer today or does it?

POSTOFFICE ROMANCE

Completion of an ample addition to Lakeside's postoffice building by the owners, the Lakeside Commercial and Savings Bank, serves to remind us of the great history of America's postal service. That service brings us every day things that cause joy and others that bring frowns. Once in a while it rejoices one's heart with a check and the next moment it drops that heart down into one's boots for out of the next envelope comes a whopping bill for type or paper or something. The postal service has been described by a whirler of words as "the delicate ear trump through which alike nations and families and isolated individuals whisper their joys and their sorrows, their convictions and their sympathies, to all who listen for their coming."

A few days ago there came to us a pamphlet entitled A Brief History of the United States Postal Service. It is really worth reading, which is something you cannot say of everything that comes out of Washington. That history combines romance, resource and reciprocity.

One learns that in America the postal system dates from 1639 when the General Court of Massachusetts, by ordinance, legalized a means of communication whereby all mail brought from overseas should be left at the home of Richard Fairbanks in Boston, who in turn would see that it was transmitted to the proper part of the new colony to which it was addressed. He was allowed a penny for each letter. That was a romantic start for America's postal service even if it was poor pay for Richard. By the way a man who called himself Poor Richard (Benjamin Franklin) was the first postmaster general for the American colonies. He was the first of a long line of men who gave great service to their country. And that includes the present genial James of the famous fighting family of Farleys.

All America's postmasters general were men of resource; they had to be, especially in the younger days of the nation when the mail always had "to get through" despite difficulties and dangers. This pamphlet tells something about how this was done. It also mentions the reciprocity, that is the cooperation of the fine courageous men who carry the mail, especially the air mail. "There was stark drama and plenty of it" in the course of the first transcontinental night mail flight in history. On February 22, 1921, the anniversary of Washington's birthday, an airplane left San Francisco at 4:30 a.m. and the next afternoon landed on Long Island. Today we think nothing of such flights but that one made world and postal history.

True indeed is the legend carved in marble on the main postoffice building in Washington which says in part:

"The Post Office Department, in its ceaseless labors pervades every channel of commerce and every theater of human enterprise and, while visiting, as it does kindly, every fireside, mingles with the throbbings of almost every heart in the land."

JUST A SUGGESTION

What's a town without a drugstore? No, that's not silly question No 1 but it is something that should not be allowed to apply here. (That's a queerly expressed sentence but you know what it means.)

Drugstores nowdays sell everyday necessities as well as drugs. In a town the size of Lakeside there should be plenty of business to keep one drugstore going. And so there would be if the residents constantly kept in mind the fact that there is an establishment here capable of meeting their every need in the drugstore line.

We are not among those who think they are sent to tell people where to trade but of course we do like to see our local people trade at home.

So may one suggest that when you are in San Diego or other cities you do not let the fascinations and the "front" of the attractive stores there make you forget the home town drugstore in Lakeside. It's a nice place, well situated near the post office. Go in and see Proprietor Rocchio sometime. He's a fine fellow; we like him. And always will we remember the welcome he gave us when we were complete strangers to this town. He probaby has forgotten it but we haven't.

Are we more interested in the poetry and folklore of Ireland than in that country's political uprisings? I wonder. Miss Dorothy Macardle, who is in America to inform us about the literary gifts of her people, thinks we are, and in her lectures she will emphasize this side of the Irish character, its love of literature and its wealth of folklore.

She herself is a poet and a playwright, having worked with the Abbey players. She served a term in jail for her support of the Republican government during the administration of President Cosgrave. She has a degree from the National University of Ireland and numbers among her friends the most important leaders in every movement.

Now people in New York can have a nurse for an hour a day, if that's all they need her. The Nursing Bureau of Manhattan and Bronx, New York, under the direction of Miss Alice E. Snyder, supplies this service chiefly for the white collar worker who needs some attention if kept at home by illness, but does not have to depend on the charity nursing service.

Miss Snyder says the hourly nursing service grew out of the needs of young men and women living alone in apartments and hotels. The nurse in attendance does not wear a uniform and carries her equipment in a brief case. She charges $2 for the first hour and $1 for each additional hour or fraction, up to $4.

The Country Garden

By Margaret Tipton Wheatly
Chairman, Garden Section,
Lakeside Woman's Club.

ALMOST NO EARTH

To say there was almost no earth for a garden when your house stands in the middle of a fertile orchard would be like the verse from the Ancient Mariner - "Water, Water every where nor any drop to drink." But it is one thing to be surrounded by ground and quite another to bring that land into intimate enough relationship to the house to convert it to our own "private" use.

We want our flowers near enough to the house so we can work there, and yet detect the odor of dinner boiling, the baby wakening, or any other of the many things as country homemakers, we carry on simultaneously.

We once knew a little farm house which stood rather disconsolately beside the road, beside the barn, atop the farm machine shop. It always looked just a little sad, sandwiched in as it was between the barn and last row of trees, and touching the ground only at one side and one corner; almost as if it were contemplating picking up and going to where it could settle solidly down upon the good earth its frequent new tenants tilled.

Eech year the hopeful housewife would put a few annuals in, but they never seemed able to rear their heads high enough to peek over the cement curbing, which had been built to safeguard the house from the traffic of the road and which left a strip of barren land three feet wide between the house and the low cement wall; creating a modified shallow well. These poor flowers never did get a good look at the beautiful world. Flowers like other ambitious freedom loving things do not enjoy living in a hole.

Then last year a new tenant moved into this little farm house with almost no earth. She went to the barn and got some old fertilizer spaded it well into the soil and planted some giant zinnia seed. The Lilliputs would never be able to peek over this cement curb! Her industry was noticed and the neighbor next door sent over some bulbs. Some of the fertilizer from the barn was traded at a near-by nursery for a few rose bushes and taler growing shrubs. Not many things were needed because the garden at the widest place was only three feet. How every thing grew! They almost tumbled over each other, so glad were they to be admired and tended!

When this bed of flowers was well along a low stone wall was laid up around the parking area between the cottage and the barn. The spaces between the rocks instead of being filled with cement were filled in with good soil. This has been planted to "succulents" and other rock garden plants. (Annuals of the low trailing variety would plant such a wall beautifully.) Some annual Mesembrythemum will add to the gaiety of the planting. This bed is one foot high at the back, two feet wide at the bottom, sloping gently back to the top, and with the exception of where the stair well goes down to the farm machine shop, being a perpendicular wall at the back, and only planted at the front, and along the top.

The space under the outside stairway leading to the upper story of the barn is decorated with some old vehicle wheels. bamboo, grasses and potted geranimums, the latter will be moved into the sunny windows when the cold days come, so that the little farm house with almost no earth blossoms truly like the rose.

This Week in Washington

By Publishers Autocaster Service Washington, July 17:

It's still about an even bet among Washington observers whether Congress will adjourn around the first of August or stay in session indefinitely, wrangling over neutrality legislation.

The action of the Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs, in voting, twelve to eleven, to postpone consideration of neutrality legislation until the next session, is not necessarily final. The hope for some compromise between the Administration's desires and those of Congress still persists

It can be stated indisputably that the entire membership of both houses of Congress and the entire Executive branch of Government, from the President down, are in absolute and complete agreement in one important point of national policy. They all want wholeheartedly to keep the United States out of war - any war. The disagreement is wholly on what particular means will best accomplish that purpose.

THE PRESENT LAW

Shall the United States forbid the sale of arms and war supplies to any nation engaged in any international war? The present law requires the President to proclaim an embargo against all belligerent nations in case of war.

This plan of keeping America neutral has the support of practically all of the Republicans and some of the anti-Ad ministration Democrats in both houses, thus bringing party politics into an international question and creating the belief that a good deal of the opposition to the Administration's desire to have the neutrality law amended is based upon the desire to embarass the President, rather than upon the real welfare of the nation.

The position of the Administration was expressed in a long statement by Secretary Hull who stated flatly that the present neutrality act would tend to draw the United States into war rather than to keep the nation out.

He recommended that the law be amended, if Congress continued to believe that a special neutrality law was required, so as to eliminate the present arms embargo. It is the right, in international law and precedent, he said, of any nation to buy or sell arms to any other nation, under any conditions, if they are able to buy and the sellers are able to deliver.

Mr. Hull's Proposals

Mr. Hull's proposals were:

To prohibit American ships from entering combat areas; to restrict travel by American citizens in combat areas; to require that goods exported from the United States to belligerent countries shall be preceded by transfer of title to the foreign purchasers; to continue the existing legislation respecting loans and credits to warring nations; to regulate the solicitation and collection in this country of funds for belligerents, and to continue the licensing system under the munitions control board covering importation and exportation of war supplies. M

The net effect of the Administration proposals would be, it is agreed, to give England and France an advantage. They have the funds to buy war munitions in America, much of them in "earmarked" gold already on deposit in American banks. The dictatorships have no such financial resources. England and France have the ships necessary to carry American supplies across the ocean and could easily prevent their successful transportation to their enemies.

The argument against the Administration program is that such being the case the Roosevelt-Hull plan would be unneutral in reality, since it would favor one side against the other.

LAST WAR ANALYZED

Back of all the neutrality restrictions imposed by the present law is the belief held by many that it was the sales of munitions to the Allies before we got into the World War which dragged us into the war, to insure collection of what the allied powers owed American bankers.

SURPRISE PACKAGE TO LOCAL WRITER FROM AN EDITOR

Even writers get surprises on occasion. W. W. Wheatly, a member of Lakeside's growing "writer's colony," received a real surprise when he unwrapped a large flat express package last week and found a beautiful oil painting by the nationally famous illustrator Walter Haskell Hinton, which had been used to open the Home Workshop Department of Popular Science Monthly's August issue.

The painting shows a potter at work at his "wheel" and illustrates the new-type potter's wheel that Wheatly developed and which was featured in the current number of this popular magazine.

Mr. Raymond J. Brown, Editor of Popular Science Monthly and Outdoor Life, who finds a place in both magazines for Wheatly's work, thought the local writer would enjoy having the original painting to hang in the Windmill Pottery, so he sent it along with the compliments of the editorial and art departments.

DISNEY FUNMAKERS ADVERTISE FAIR AT SACRAMENTO

Sacramento - And it's heigh-ho, heigh-ho to the fair we go as Walt Disney's cartoon family leads the parade in presenting the advertising of California's 85th annual state fair at Sacramento September 1 thru 10.

Soon from the Oregon line to San Diego Mickey Mouse, Minnie, Pluto, Ferdinand, Donald Duck and the three Little Pigs will greet the eye urging attendance at the world's largest agricultural exhibition.

Mickey has Pluto on the leash and heads for the main gate with a happy invitation to follow. Donald Duck rides in on Ferdinand who heads for the flower show, but ends up doing his stuff pulling a covered wagon.

Once inside Mickey has a scooter on which to tour the grounds much to the disgust of the more dignified Minnie.

The Three Little Pigs arrive in a merry mood, skillfully avoid the barbecue pits and finally cast their fortunes with the boys and girls of the 4-H Clubs and the Future Farmers of America.

FASHION for today

BY

PATRICIA DOW

Particularly during the hot weather, stitched pleats are as satisfactory from a practical point of view as they are smart.

Designed on basic shirtwaist lines, this pattern (8425) gives you a soft blouse at the waistline, youthful, wide-shouldered sleeves, and two decorative little flap pockets.

It's tailored enough to be very practical for everyday, and softened enough to be extremely becoming.

Make this of linen, pique, batiste or gingham, plain, colored or printed, with the little cuffs and notched collar in white or contrast.

Pattern 8522 - This obliging pattern (8522) is perforated so that you can make it without the sleeves if you like.

The bodice is darted in to give you a slim waistline. The skirt is circular and very pretty. A patch pocket adds to the appeal of this dress.

With the little bolero, which has smartly wide-shouldered sleeves, this dress will be charming for street wear as well as for active and spectator sports.

Make it of pique, linen gingham or batiste.

S. D. YOUTH SHOT IN STUNT NEAR SANTEE

In a sort of imitation of the William Tell stunt, Emmett Wilson, 17, of San Diego was wounded while with a shooting party in Mission Gorge near Santee Sunday. With a group of other boys Wilson was trying his skill. Then he put his hat on a stick, hid behind a rock and held up his hat as a target. One boy missed it and the bullet from a .22 cal rifle tore through the palm of Emmett's right hand, then struck the little finger on his left hand. He was given emergency treatment and taken to a San Diego hospital.

TREES "TRAPNESTED" BY NURSERYMAN

Using a method not unlike that of a poultryman trapnesting fine breeding stock, B. M. McDonald, avocado nurseryman of Fallbrook, California, has for eight years kept a record of every fruit produced on the avocado trees from which he takes bud stock. On each tree is a permanent tag, and as the fruit is picked, a record is kept showing the number of fruits taken. On the reverse side of the tag is the record of the total season pickings, year after year. According to Mr. McDonald there is a wide difference in the amount and quality of fruit produced by apparently similar trees, so for bud stock he uses only buds from the best trees, reports W. W. Wheatly.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

This verse from Jude, "Keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life," is the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Love" on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

The Lesson-Sermon includes this passage from Malachi: "Have we not all one father? hath not one God created us?" These verses about Jesus from Matthew are also presented: "Then one said unto him, Behold, thy mother and thy brethren stand without, desiring to speak with thee. But he answered and said unto him that told him, "Who is my mother? and who are my brethren? And he stretched forth his hand toward his disciples, and said, Behold my mother and my brethren! For whosoever shall do the will of my Father which is in heaven, the same is my brother, and sister, and mother."

Among the selections from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, are the statements: "In Science man is the offspring of Spirit. The beautiful, good, and pure constitute his ancestry. His origin is not, like that of mortals, in brute instinct, nor does he pass through material conditions prior to reaching intelligence. Spirit is his primitive and ultimate source of being; God is his Father, and Life is the law of his being."

When one door is shut, another opens. - Cervantes.

McFarland, camp athletic officer, announcing this and other appointments, says the men are elected by their team mates and selection as captain indicates outstanding ability as a performer and leader. High school and college athletes from California and Nevada are members of the athletic teams.

GOODWILL INDUSTRIES HELP MANY TO EARN

A daily average of 51 men and women found "Not Charity but a Chance" with the Goodwill Industries of San Diego County last month, receiving in cash wages a total of almost $3000. This was made possible by sales in the four Goodwill stores to more than 7000 customers, supported by receipts from salvage sales and from the Community Chest. Most of these workers were in some way handicapped so that they found it difficult to find work in business firms or anywhere else than the Goodwill.

Each day's activities at the Goodwill begin with a chapel service at 8 a.m. In attendance upon these services last month were 1108 persons.

The opportunity is often lost by deliberating. - Syrus.

Mainly About People

By Lorena Sands

Lakeside, July 26, '39
Dear Eleanor;

The people of Lakeside certainly can grow anything and everything. This last week I think Mrs. Allen Mitchell and Mr. Arthur Johnson were vying for honors on their peaches We received some from both gardens, and believe me. they were wonderful.

It seems that San Diego people are gradually moving out to Lakeside. Last month Mr. George A. Tyler bought the Bill Innes place at Fernbrook.

Bobby Carlile is leaving this week for a three weeks vacation at the Iron Springs Mountain Camp for children. The camp is up on Palomar Mt.

Mrs. Ronald Smith and Pattie Lou of Berkeley are occupying one of the cottages at HaHana for the balance of the summer.

Mrs. Thomes Butler was telling me that her sister Mrs. Noble Butler is staying with them for a while to recouperate from her recent illness.

Dr. and Mrs. Gillette of Fernbrook had a grand time fishing on Lake Henshaw last Thursday. They left in the wee small hours to make the trip. Mrs. Pringle, who makes her home with her daughter Mrs. Gillette has gone to Wisconsin with her brother for a short visit.

The Otis Barkers entertained Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Blyman, San Diego at dinner at their home last Friday. Also on Friday little Mary Carlile had guests. The two little Weaver girls, Betty and Patty of El Cajon spent the day with her.

Visiting in Lakeside for the week end Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Carr of Chula Vista were guests at the Gus Huffman home. And Mr. and Mrs. Ira E. Scott had out of town guests for several days last week. Their and nephew Mr. and Mrs. Maurer and daughter from Holtville paid them a visit.

So many nice friends of Mrs. W. C. Koppel have sent her cards and letters during her recent illness; she was telling me and that it makes convalescing so much easier. She is able to be up for awhile now, and some of her friends have come to visit her.

Mr. H. H. Thomas and two children J. F. and Joann arrived Friday at the Ray Hiner home. Mrs. Thomas sister of Mr. Hiner has been visiting in Lakeside for the summer.

Charles Clark son of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Clark is visiting his grandfather, Charles F. Johnson of San Diego.

The C. Sterling Judsons enter tained Charles Dodge, Ojai, as a weekend house guest.

Mr. Larry Hill, Ocean Beach, was a two day guest at the Bill Simpson home. Mr. Hill is City Engineer.

I know you'll be sorry to hear that Mrs. Nattie Evans is in a critical condition at the General Hospital in San Diego.

Guess the last bit of news I have for you this week is that the Harry Keohlers entertained the Bill Simpsons at dinner last Saturday, and that little Laurel Wetzel won the prize at the doll parade on Monday.

Affectionately,
Noel, Sandy and I will be up to your Redondo Beach home next week end.

FISHING FOR OUTBOARD MOTORS NEW SPORT

Mr. and Mrs. Walt Riggs and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Grand, Julian, spent the weekend fishing at Lake Cuyamaca. Mrs Grand and her two little daughters returned with the Riggs to spend the week at their home. Mrs. Riggs and Mrs. Grand are sisters. Most of the fishing was done by Walt Riggs after he lost the outboard motor off the the boat. He was unsuccessful in locating it. During the week he has had a diver looking for the motor, but to date has had no report of it.

SHIMMONS NOW "80" PRESIDENT

Previously Shimmons had stated he would be unable to accept the position at the cost of neglecting his own business affairs.

Herbert R. Anderson, El Centro chamber president, was nominated to fill the director's vacancy caused by MacDonald's resignation J. R. Fowble, president of the Mountain Empire Electric cooperative, and State Highway Commissioner B. L. Vaughn, were nominated to fill director's vacancy caused by resignation of Val M. Egbert.

VAUGHN NOMINATED

Vaughn was mentioned as possible vice president, succeeding Shimmons. A committee was appointed to seek renewal of Hipass and Live Oak memberships in order directors representing those communities might continue to serve. Directors to fill vacancies will be voted on at the August meeting. Further nominations may be made it was decided.

Although a report by Treasurer Alma Miller revealed only $1.26 remaining in the treasury Secretary John Hettich was authorized to order 3000 folders advertising the Imperial county stretch of Highway 80 from the Calexico Chronicle.

These circulars, Robert Hays explained, may be obtained at a cost of one cent each, and one and a quarter pages may bear printed matter submitted by the chamber. Circulars were first printed for the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Imperial county to boost the valley.

For the same purpose Highway 80 chamber will mail them to a selected list of San Diego county community leaders.

By unamious vote Laguna Junction was adopted as the official meeting place of the chamber, consideration however to be given to invitations to meet elsewhere upon special occasions.
